REPARATIONS PAY MUST BE REDUCED SAYS NEW CHARGE

NECESSARY TO THE ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION OF GERMANY, HE SAYS.

MUST ALSO NEGOTIATE AN INTERNATIONAL LOAN

Expresses Hope That the United States "Would Take Part" In This Provision.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Impartial experts agree that the only hope of economic reconstruction for Germany lies in a "speedy and considerable reduction of the exaggerated reparations payment" and the deferment of all such payments for "at least a number of years," Karl Lang, German charge d'affaires, declared in an address here today before the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

In his first public utterance since arriving in this country last fall as the German diplomatic representative, Charge Lang added that an equally important essential to Germany's economic recovery was the negotiation of an international loan. In this, he said, Germany hoped the United States "would take part" for "it seems that a collapse of Germany and consequently of other European nations is inevitable if the United States continues to stand aside."

Because factories are running and there is little unemployment at present and certain signs of luxury are observed in the larger cities of Germany, Mr. Lang said, foreigners traveling there are "easily led into a misconception of the true situation." The real truth about this "so much talked of prosperity is that it is to a very great extent" absorbed, first by reparations payments, and, second, by the "increased imports of foodstuffs owing to the decline of German agriculture," caused by the war.

Added to the economic handicaps which he said Germany now faced, Mr. Lang estimated that since the signing of the Versailles treaty the wealth of the German people had been cut down by approximately forty-five billion gold marks, exclusive of the lost colonies and ceded territory. More than eleven billions of this amount, he said, was in German property expropriated abroad. Pointing out in this connection that the United States thus far has not followed this course with respect to German property, Mr. Lang remarked that adherence to this policy would be a guide to "every individual as to the country in which to invest his money where it would not be touched in the case of further international trouble."

Airplane Stolen From Love Field; Officers Notified

DALLAS, May 12—Officers within a radius of 200 miles of Dallas are on the lookout for an aeroplane thief today.

An unidentified man early today entered a hangar at Love Field, formerly an army air station here, rolled out a big plane, "cranked it up" and sailed away. The machine had been prepared last night for a flight and had a gas supply sufficient to carry it 300 miles, Horace McGraw, its owner, reported to the police. Officers in the surrounding country were notified.

BEAUMONT RECTOR IS FORMER GRAND DRAGON OF "KLAN"

BEAUMONT, TEXAS, May 12—Dr A. D. Ellis, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church of this city, is a former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan of Texas, and a former cyclops of klan No. 7 of this city, according to his statement in a deposition taken this morning before S B Cooper, notary public.

Dr. Ellis was one of three whose depositions were taken today, the testimony to be used in the impeachment proceedings to be conducted against Sheriff Tom Garner of Jefferson county. Fourteen more witnesses are to be heard.

When Chief of Police B. B. Johnson was questioned at 2:00 o'clock he said he attended one meeting of the klan some time during the holidays but never took the oath. He said he never saw Sheriff Garner at one of the meetings.

FIVE NEW BISHOPS ARE TO BE ELECTED BY THE METHODISTS

ACTION IS TAKEN FOLLOWING EXCITING SCENE IN CONFERENCE.

PROMINENTLY MENTION FOUR TEXAS PREACHERS

Selecman and Boaz of Dallas, Hay of Houston and Culver of Fort Worth.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., May 12.—Following a sharp debate which produced numerous parliamentary tangles and brought allegations from the floor that all sides had not been able to present their views, the 19th quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in session here today adopted the report of its committee on episcopacy, providing for the election of five new bishops.

PROMINENTLY MENTION FOUR TEXAS PREACHERS

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., May 12.—Politics moved into the foreground at the 19th quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south here today as the body took up the question of how many new bishops shall be elected at this session.

The conference discussion hinged around a report of the committee on episcopacy recommending that five new prelates be chosen.

Although the elections do not take place until Tuesday friends of the aspirants were busy urging the qualifications of their respective candidates.

The names of four Texans heard most prominently in the pre-election campaigning were those of Reverends C. C. Selecman, Dallas; H. A. Boaz, Dallas; S. R. Hay, Houston, and F. P. Culver, Fort Worth.

Names of several delegates from Missouri were in the air and included those of the Rev. Paul H. Linn of Fayette, Dr J. T. Pritchett, presiding elder of the Kansas City conference, and the Rev. G. B. Winton of St. Louis.

Others being talked of for places included O. E. Goddard of Nashville, representing the east Oklahoma conference, and Dr. S. H. C. Burgin of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the church extension board. Dr Burgin told friends today he did not expect to be a candidate for reelection as extension board secretary.

As the conference went in session a divergency of opinion seemed to exist over the number of new bishops to be elected. Some delegates thought the addition of five was unnecessary. Others believed the number should be larger.

SUGGESTION OF MERGER MADE AT CONFERENCE

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., May 12—Formal suggestion of a merger between the United Brethren church and the Methodist Episcopal church south, was made by Bishop H. S Fout of Indianapolis, in an address here today before the 19th quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

PENN TOWNSHIP MINE BLOWN UP; THREATEN ANOTHER

PITTSBURGH, May 12—The Peterman mine in Penn Township, near here, was blown up early today by a heavy charge of dynamite which threw stones so far that the farm house of George Wessel, almost a quarter of a mile away, was damaged. Sheriff Robert W. Woodside with a big force of deputies left Pittsburgh shortly after 9:00 a. m. for the mine where, it was reported, a body of coal strike sympathizers had collected.

Ten minutes after the deputies left Pittsburgh, Peterman said over the telephone from his home in Oakmont, Pa., that the men who had attacked his place were hastening in automobiles to the mine of Joseph Schenck, half a mile away. One of the automobiles contained dynamite, Peterman said, and members of the crowd said they were going to "get the Schenck mine."

Peterman said that the men had gone to his mine shortly before daybreak and planting a heavy charge of dynamite in the mouth of the drift, completely destroying it.

MAY INVOKE A LAW USED IN CONVICTING HAYMARKET RIOTERS

EIGHT INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED AGAINST LABOR LEADERS.

MORE THAN 400 ARE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Efforts of Attorneys For Men to Secure Their Release Have Failed.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Through an unexplained error by some official Jeremiah Horn, former saloon-keeper, indicted with several labor leaders for murder in connection with the killing of two policemen, was released from the county jail last night on a $50 bail after being booked on a disorderly conduct charge, and has disappeared. Two squads of detectives were ordered by Chief of Police Fitzmorris to scour the city for Horn when his release became known today.

CHICAGO, May 12—Police and civic organizations today saw in the indictment of eight Chicago labor leaders and the state's attorney's threat to use against them the law invoked 36 years ago to obtain executions of the Haymarket rioters, a smashing blow at what they termed gang terrorism. In the first night session on record a Cook county special grand jury returned true bills charging murder against "Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas workers' union; Fred Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council; Cornelius P. (Con) Shea, secretary-treasurer of the theater janitors union, referred to as the "big three" of the vicious labor circles, and five others.

The indictments are forerunners of scores of others, city and county officials said. More than 400 persons were arrested and but few have been released with the greater number denied freedom on writs of habeas corpus.

Others named in the indictments are: Isadore Braverman, head of the fixtures hangers union; Daniel McCarthy, business agent of the plumbers' union; Jerry Horan, saloon keeper; Thomas Hogan, former police officer, and Robert McCloud, clerk in the building trades council.

The eight are charged specifically with the killing of Terrance Lyons, acting police lieutenant. The slaying of Lyons followed the murder of Thomas Clark, patrolman on guard at a building which previously had been bombed, police say, by labor men because it was being erected under the wage decision handed down by K. M. Landis, former federal judge.

Efforts of the attorneys for the labor leaders to obtain the release of Murphy Shea, Mader and the others failed when Judge Kickham Scanlon declared that a state of war existed between labor and the police. "If the same law is used as in the anarchist case, I am convinced that we have enough evidence to hang Murphy," George E Gromon, assistant state's attorney, said. "And not only Murphy, but Shea and Mader. We have more than the necessary evidence linking these men with the bomb outrages, sluggings and murders which have occurred within the last few months.

"Under the law which applies in the case of the anarchists it is merely necessary to prove that the men committed acts which incited or led others to commit these crimes. It is not necessary to prove conspiracy. The countenancing or suggesting of an act of violence under this law constitutes an overt act just as much as that of the man who wields the gun. I am confident of convictions."

Witnesses before the grand jury last night included 20 policemen in addition to civilians, all guarded carefully because police feared they might come to harm if labor organizations learned who had testified. Documents seized at labor headquarters during raids made following the murders also were introduced.

Although Mader was the head of the building trades council, in name, Murphy is the "power behind the throne," Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police, said in explaining why labor leaders had been rounded up. "Murphy craved the title held by Mader," he said.

A letter seized in a raid on labor headquarters proves, Fitzmorris said, that labor planned to gather a big fund to use in an emergency of this sort.

True bills voted last night by the county grand jury charging "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader and Con Shea, labor leaders, and five others with murder in connection with the death of two policemen, were formally returned before Judge Scanlon in criminal court today.

Judge Scanlon immediately ordered warrants issued for the men who have been held, without being booked since Wednesday.

Horn's release became known late last night. He was to appear in police court on the disorderly conduct charge this morning but failed to show up. The true bill against him was voted last night and became an indictment when it was returned in court today.

ELIASVILLE, TEXAS, May 12—The Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company here reports a gusher on its Tullus lease on the Eliasville and Caddo road, five miles north of Caddo. The well is Tullus No. 3 and according to the district superintendent the well is good for 4,000 barrels of oil and 2,000,000 feet of gas from the 3200 foot lime.

This well extends the Caddo field farther north and opens up quite a lot of new territory. Of late Mid Kansas has been doing its principal development in the immediate vicinity of Eliasville, but now it will have a much larger territory to prove up.

The Mid-Kansas, A A Adkins account 3, No 3 four miles southwest of Eliasville is in and is flowing at the rate of 200 barrels and with a heavy gas pressure.

ORDER INVESTIGATION OF PROPOSED MERGER OF STEEL CORPORATIONS

WASHINGTON, May 12—Federal inquiry into reported plans for a merger of the largest independent steel concerns including the Bethlehem and Lackawanna companies, was ordered today by the senate in adopting a resolution of Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, calling upon the department of justice and federal trade commission to take steps designed to prevent the combination.

Senator LaFollette said that irreparable injury would be done if the new steel merger was allowed to be consummated. He charged that the merger was proposed to place the entire steel industry in the hands of two great monopolies and to increase steel prices.

"Those behind the merger" Senator LaFollette declared, "believed the Sherman anti-trust law to be a 'dead letter'."

ROUNTREE DISCUSSES THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Member of Legislature Outlines Plans For Improving Educational System.

DENTON, TEXAS, May 12—After having been delayed by washouts west of Fort Worth, the panhandle delegation arrived here this morning in time for the second day's session of the convention of the Texas Press association. About 400 members were present today.

Governor Neff, who addressed the editors last night, remained over today and expects to leave for Austin late this afternoon.

DENTON TEXAS, May 12—Questions affecting newspaper publishers were the principal matters to be discussed at the second day's session of the annual convention of the Texas Press association here today. Prominent editors were on the program for addresses.

Governor Neff addressed the convention last night, stressing need of a better educational system, conservation of flood water, preservation of overflow lands, building of better highways, an improved prison system and stricter enforcement of the laws.

The governor said a special session of the legislature may be necessary to solve problems facing the public school system. He was reluctant, however, to reconvene the present legislature, the executive declared, and concluded with a plea to the voters to send to the next legislature a "membership of lawmakers in sympathy with the educational life of Texas."

Lee J Rountree, editor of the Bryan Eagle one of today's speakers, discussed "the public school system of Texas," and declared for the repealing of the precinct, county and district lines, and for a great state blanket school fund or mileage tax for every child in Texas, and for universal militant, efficient and far reaching education of the mind, heart, activities, patriotism and purposes and to keep militant all the public schools in "God's open country."

Mr Rountree, a member of the legislature, declared "education is the indestructible corner stone of civilization."

MORAL INFLUENCE OF AMERICA MOST POTENT FOR GOOD SAYS LOWDEN

CHICAGO, May 12—The moral influence of America is the most potent influence for good in the world, former Governor Frank O Lowden of Illinois, asserted in a statement issued last night reviewing his recent trip to Europe. Mr Lowden, who arrived in Chicago today, said America cannot avoid participation in world affairs and added that it were better for America to participate in advance and avoid war than wait until war is forced upon it.

He declared, however, that America was wise in staying out of the Genoa conference. The most depressing phenomenon in Europe today, he said, is the jealousy and bitterness between the nations of Europe.

ONE OF THE WORST SPRING BLIZZARDS IN SEVERAL YEARS

DENVER, May 12.—Storms which swept the Rock mountain states Wednesday night and virtually all day Thursday apparently had subsided last night. From Wyoming and Colorado points this region had passed through what was declared to have been one of the worst spring blizzards in years.

The severe sleet and rain storm virtually isolated Sheridan, Wyo. Communication with eastern points was completely severed by the rain. No trains had arrived since early Thursday morning. Telegraph wires are reported down along the Burlington railroad and wind which is said to have reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour carried away telegraph and telephone poles.

MORGAN ARRESTS MAN WITH $1,500 REWARD ON HEAD

JOHN SPRINKLE, ALIAS WILLSON, SAID TO BE WANTED IN ABILENE.

PRISONER STATES HE IS WANTED FOR MURDER

States In Cell That He Was Given Sentence of Twenty Years in Penitentiary.

Constable Frank Morgan is holding John Sprinkle alias Charley Willson, in the county jail for the sheriff of Abilene, and the sheriff telephoned Mr Morgan that a reward of $1,500 is on the man's head.

The prisoner admits that he is wanted in Abilene having been convicted on the charge of murder and sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary three years ago.

Constable Morgan arrested the man under the name of Willson three weeks ago at the time he confiscated three stills in a house on the K M & T road. The man was held for federal court but was turned out Thursday morning. In the meantime Mr Morgan states that he sent out a number of letters in an attempt to see whether he was wanted somewhere else.

Friday morning he received a letter from the sheriff of Abilene, in which the officer stated that the man from the description given was wanted there for murder.

He told of a big scar on the man's left leg. Morgan immediately went in quest of his man and found him in the city and took him back to his office. The scar as described was on the man's leg. It was then that the prisoner stated that his real name was Sprinkle.

On the way to the jail Mr Morgan stated that the prisoner said, "I'm going, but please don't shoot." The prisoner made a break but Mr Morgan caught him with his left hand, reaching for his gun with his right. The officer states that the prisoner said, "Please don't kill me."

After his arrest Mr Morgan got in communication with the sheriff at Abilene, who told him that a reward of $1,500 was on the man's head. He also informed Mr Morgan that Sprinkle had sawed his way out of two jails since his conviction.

BETWEEN FORTY AND FIFTY THOUSAND ARE BEING GIVEN RELIEF

NEW ORLEANS, May 12—Rationing of flood victims in Louisiana and Mississippi must continue six weeks longer, relief work officials said today. Between 40,000 and 50,000 persons are now being maintained by the Red Cross and state relief commissions while more than 530 square miles of land in the two states are submerged.

There is an additional area of about 235 square miles in Arkansas inundated as a result of a break of the levee of the White river.

Thousands of acres of land seeded in cotton and corn for the 1922 crops are overflowed. Planting operations have been suspended and when the water subsides the season will be too far advanced to permit the planting of other than small field crops.

FATE OF THE GENOA CONFERENCE MAY BE SETTLED IN FRANCE

AWAIT REPLY OF PREMIER POINCARE TO RUSSIAN MEMORANDUM.

SUB-COMMISSION HAS POSTPONED DISCUSSION

Great Britain Has Proposed a Truce in Eastern Europe Pending Settlement.

By Associated Press

GENOA, May 12—France will never agree to the project for a mixed commission sitting indefinitely while the conference is going on to study Russian affairs, according to a statement issued by the French delegation this noon.

GENOA, May 12—Great Britain has proposed a truce in eastern Europe on the basis of de facto frontiers, pending the conclusions of a commission of inquiry to be appointed, it was announced this afternoon.

GENOA, May 12—The economic conference sub-commission on Russian affairs this afternoon postponed consideration of the Russian reply to the allied memorandum until 11:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

By Associated Press

GENOA, May 12—The fate of the Genoa conference may be settled today in Paris in the opinion of many delegates and the decision of Premier Poincare on the Russian reply to the allied memorandum was awaited with anxiety.

Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain and Signor Schanzer of Italy have used all their influence with the chief of the French delegates. M Barthou to impress upon him that the Russian note, although not as favorable as was hoped, still leaves the door open for discussion and perhaps for general agreement. They urged him to reflect this opinion in his dispatches to his premier.

It is believed that if left to themselves the majority of the powers will favor continuance of the discussion but if France withdraws from the conference certain of the other powers will follow her.

The number of such nations might be enough to make impossible hope of agreement with the soviet even if Mr. Lloyd-George is willing to continue the conference without France. The latter contingency is improbable however, considering the storm of protest such an indication of the collapse of the entente might raise in England.

M. Barthou telegraphed the text of the Russian communication to Paris and expected to receive his instructions today. After reading the document his only comment is, "It is less an answer than an indictment of the powers, coupled with a flat refusal to reply to the questions put to them (the Russians)."

The British view as given by Sir Edward Grigg was that the note certainly calls for a rejoinder."

BRITISH VIEW RUSSIA STATEMENT AS STUPID

GENOA, May 12—A statement of the British view on the Russian reply to the allied memorandum today terms the document "very stupid from the viewpoint of Russian interests" but says Great Britain is not prepared to adopt the view that Europe is to be denied peace or the Russian people further consideration in their misery simply because of a stupid argument.

"As far as Russia is concerned," continues the statement "help will undoubtedly be delayed and rendered more difficult, but that is an affair of the Russian government. We are quite prepared to go into the suggestion that the questions of credits, debts and private property be referred to a mixed commission which will study them in detail and eventually report, although this means that Russia will have to wait some time longer for credits."

CONTINUATION OF THE CONFERENCE IS EXPECTED

GENOA, May 12—Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy addressing the entire body of newspaper representatives in attendance upon the economic conference late this afternoon expressed the opinion that the Russian reply would not prevent the continuation of the conference.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY BECOMES EQUAL OWNER IN RUSSIAN PROPERTIES

NEW YORK, May 12—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey today announced it had become equal owner with the Nobel interests in Nobel Russian oil properties.

"Immediately after the end of the war," a company statement said, "negotiations were begun between representatives of the Nobel and Standard company (New Jersey) interests looking to the sale to the latter company of part interest in the Nobel properties. Early in the summer of 1920 the sale was consummated and the Nobel interests and Standard Oil company (New Jersey) became equal owners in the Nobel Russian oil properties. There has been no change in the situation since."

PINCHOT IS TRYING TO BREAK MACHINE IN PENNSYLVANIA

RUNNING AS AN OUTSIDER HE CHARGES MISMANAGEMENT OF GOVERNMENT.

CANDIDACY SUPPORTED BY OLD PROGRESSIVES

Will Also Command the Vote Of Insurgents From the Republican Ranks.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.
(Copyright 1922 by the New York Evening Post, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—The next political event in sight is the republican primary in Pennsylvania, to be decided next Tuesday. For the understanding of the public outside of Pennsylvania, it can be said that the two United States senatorships concerned are not the cause of the excitement in political circles. For the succession to Senator Knox there is but one republican candidate, a young lawyer named Reed, who was a junior member in the late Senator Knox's Pittsburgh law firm. Mr. Reed will have no opposition in the primaries, and will undoubtedly win the fall election against the democratic candidate. It can be taken for granted that the successor to Senator Knox is practically chosen.

SULLIVAN

In the same way, to only a slightly less extent, it is clear that the successor to the late Senator Penrose will be George Wharton Pepper. Mr. Pepper has some opposition in the republican primary. It is furnished by a railroad labor man, William J. Burke. Burke is making an energetic campaign, but he cannot win. Pepper has the support of both factions of the republican party. He has avoided becoming involved in the fight within the party. Not only will Mr. Pepper get the republican nomination, but it is equally certain that he twill prevail over the democrat in the fall election. In all probability the next senators from Pennsylvania will be the two republicans, Reed and Pepper.

But it is over the governorship of Pennsylvania that the most bitter fight is on that has taken place within the republican party in Pennsylvania within a generation. The candidate who is creating most of the interest is a nationally known figure—Gifford Pinchot. Mr. Pinchot's career in politics has been that of an idealist, a progressive, a Roosevelt man. Early in life when he was still a student at Yale, he adopted a profession then comparatively little known in America, that of forestry. This profession he studied for several years in France, Germany, Switzerland and Austria. Since the completion of his student days, he has spent his entire career in one branch or another of this profession.

For twelve years he was head of the bureau of forestry of the United States government. This experience coincided for seven years with the presidency of Roosevelt, and Mr. Pinchot as an intimate of Roosevelt was frequently described as one of the members of Roosevelt's "tennis cabinet." Pinchot came conspicuously to the front as the champion and spokesman of the policy of conservation of national resources in the Ballinger controversy during the presidency of Taft. It was during that fight that Pinchot left the government service.

For the past few years he has been the head of the Forest service of the state of Pennsylvania. Under ordinary circumstances, and especially as long as the late Senator Penrose was the head of the Pennsylvania republican machine, a man of Mr. Pinchot's type would hardly have had the faintest chance to win an elective office in Pennsylvania. It is the partial disruption of this old Pennsylvania machine incident to Penrose's death that has given Pinchot the opportunity he now has.

The fight is staged wholly between what remains of the old Pennsylvania machine, whose candidate is the present attorney general of the state, Alter, and Pinchot, running as an outsider with the aid of some slight support from an insurgent section of the old machine. The issues involved include largely Pinchot's personality and public record, which is of the sort to appeal to women voters and to all the old Roosevelt element in Pennsylvania. Added to this is the issue of charges of extravagance and other forms of mismanagement of the state government under the administration of the republican organization. Pinchot's support is rather more powerful than that of any other man who has ever contended against the Pennsylvania republican machine.

JURORS SUMMONED QUESTIONED AS TO KLAN MEMBERSHIP

CHILDRESS, May 12.—The spring term of district court has been in session this week under the supervision of Judge Nabers, and the jury was selected with J. M. McClain as chairman. Quite a bit of interest was occasioned by a test made by the judge, when he asked all members of the jury who were not members of the Ku Klux Klan to hold up their hands. All but one man held up their hands, and he was excused from jury duty.

After the jury had been sworn in, Judge Nabers called the bailiffs to the desk and asked each one directly if he was a member of the klan, and each one answered in the negative.

The following cases have appeared on the docket: American Surety company vs. C. C. Ault, suit for debt, judgment by default; W. H. Browning vs. Wm. Kinsey, performance of contract and damages, plaintiff granted two weeks to file amended petitions; City Guaranty State bank vs. A. C. Halton, suit for debt, damages and foreclosure, judgment by default and relief prayed for; W. B. Howard vs. R. J. Poe, judgment for plaintiff and relief prayed for; alice Hedge vs. V. F. Hedge, divorce granted; J. I. Case company vs. W. H. B. Moore, suit for debt and foreclosure, judgment granted by default and relief prayed for; Mary E. Harris vs. I. O. Harris, divorce granted; Lula Brow vs. W. S. Brown, divorce granted; J. L. Young vs. L. M. Couch et al., suit for debt, judgment by default, Nisbett and Barry vs. M. L. RALCO-ROARK NO. 2 MAKING MUCH GAS, SEEMS PRODUCER

The Detroit-Mexia Oil company on the Lynn tract situated about one mile northeast of the Ralco-Roark well south of Bunger in Young county, encountered a sand in their No. 2 well at 1555 which was penetrated 10 feet and is making 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas and spraying oil. The owners are looking forward to a good producer as the gas wells in this locality usually turn into oil after a short time and a 500 barrel well is considered likely.

One of the best wells reported from the Breckenridge district was completed Thursday by Landreth and Foster, it being their No. 5 on the Stoker lease in the Curry pool south of town. The well came in flowing natural 200 barrels from the usual lime, but was given a 40-quart shot of nitro when the flow increased from 200 to 500 barrels.

Tom Hunter's No. 3 well on the Murdock tract in the south Burkburnett pool is completed in the 1360 foot sand and reported swabbing and flowing at the rate of 250 barrels. These wells are in what is known as the Lanfing and Moninger section of the pool, where some good shallow producers have been finished.

No. 17 of the Texhoma Refining company on the S. M. Gose tract in Archer county is drilling in the 1600 foot sand Friday and has all the appearances of a 250 barrel producer. No additional acreage is added to the field as the well is in the proven area.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose Of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day, it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—adv.

To the Voters of the Thirteenth District

In fairness to the men and women who will cast their ballots on May 13, to elect a representative to Congress from the Thirteenth Congressional District, we desire to submit for your consideration the following:

S. A. L. Morgan entered the race for Congress in the summer of 1921. Following the death of the late Lucian W. Parrish, a special election was called to be held on May 13, to elect a successor to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Parrish. It has been impossible for Mr. Morgan to see personally all the voters of the district; he has conducted a vigorous campaign and to the certain knowledge of his friends who have been active in his support his campaign has been clean and upon a high plane to which every man should adhere.

Mr. Bullington before leaving for Washington about the middle of April agreed to become active in behalf of Mr. Morgan upon his return from Washington; for some reason, however, he announced while in Washington that he would be a candidate for the office upon an independent ticket. This naturally gave rise to a report circulated over the district that Mr. Bullington would divide the vote in Wichita County and defeat Mr. Morgan; we have found, however, this is not true, but on the contrary his friends have rallied to his support and we believe that the voters of Wichita County and over the district, understanding the effort that has been made to divide the vote will stand by Mr. Morgan solidly on May 13.

At the present time there is only one Congressman in Washington representing all of the northwest portion of Texas and the Panhandle; should either of Mr. Morgan's opponents from the lower end of the district be elected it will place four Congressmen in a radius of fifty to sixty miles of each other, there being one already at Fort Worth, one at Dallas and one at Bonham. It is more than three hundred miles from Fort Worth to Amarillo and that distance lying between these points should certainly be entitled to a man to represent them who is familiar with the needs of the people.

May we ask that before casting your ballot you give Mr. Morgan's candidacy serious consideration and vote for the man whose record is clean, whose qualifications are not questioned and whose honesty and integrity is unimpeachable. VOTE FOR THE HOME MAN AND A DEMOCRAT.

MORGAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE,
Luther Hoffman, Chairman.

Six Nations Honor Founder of Modern Red Cross Nursing

By Associated Press.

BORDEAUX, May 12.—Six nations today honored the memory of Florence Nightingale, founder of modern Red Cross nursing, and the 278 American nurses who died in France during the world war. The principal event of the day was the dedication of the Florence Nightingale school for nurses, as a "memorial to the higher education of nurses for humanity and for France."

Miss Mary Beard of Boston, speaking on behalf of the nurses of the United States, recounted the services of Miss Nightingale in succoring the wounded at Balaklava, the scene of the famous charge of the Light Brigade, and later in the hospitals at Constantinople.

"Two thousand years ago," she said, "a man gave the world a message of mercy, indulgence and love, but it remained for a woman born 102 years ago today to give practical application of those principles to suffering humanity.

"The example of Miss Nightingale, 'the lady with the lamp,' has been followed by thousands of other nurses throughout the world, and nowhere more than in the United States. Nearly 300 of our sisters from America gave their lives for France and humanity, 100 of whom rest in French soil."

The new school will provide every facility for training nurses according to American standards. It will be under the direction of Dr. Anna Hamilton of New York.

FORMER EMPEROR OF GERMANY IS DEVOTING ATTENTION TO RELIGION

AMSTERDAM, May 12.—Former Emperor William's devotion to religion has progressed to the point of Mania, Admiral von Tirpitz, former minister of the Germany navy, is reported to have told a friend recently.

The German ex-kaiser is described as spending the greater part of each day in reading the scriptures, commentaries, sermons and other religious books and in prayer. His health appears to be good, but the members of his entourage at Doorn regard his mental state with some anxiety. It is observed that his interest in European affairs has greatly diminished, even German politics finding him somewhat uninterested. His mind appears to live rather in the past than in the present and he is disposed, whenever he does converse on politics and someone speaks of the injustice of the world, to allude with a certain melancholy and indifference to what he terms the false accusation of his having "willed the war."

His occasional visitors find his mind shut in and closed to present German affairs and the relations between Germany and the rest of the European countries.

GIVES ADVICE ON OUTDOOR ADVERTISING IN INDIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 12—American manufacturers should take into careful consideration the effect of the rainy season on outdoor advertising in India, William Menkel of the association of National Advertisers today told delegates to the foreign trade convention

"Suit your selling talk to the tastes and character of the people," Mr Menkel advised "The natives of some countries buy their watches not to keep time, but to make a show. Motor cars are often bought for their looks."

"Don't assume that advertisements for South America must picture bull fights or beautiful senoritas smoking cigarettes. These things are not generally characteristic of Latin-America Be careful about the kind of animals you use on your illustrations for certain animals have important significance. In Korea the white elephant is sacred The leopard means terror and death in certain parts of India, and the dog is not acceptable to the Chinese"

REQUIRE PIPE LINES ACCEPT A MINIMUM OF 10,000 BARRELS

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Prairie, Indiana, Buckeye and Northern Pipe Line companies are required under an interstate commerce commission decision just announced, to accept minimum shipments of 10,000 barrels from oil wells in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas for pumping to Franklin and Lacy Station, both in Pennsylvania

The former rules of the pipe line companies required a minimum of 100,000 barrels before the shipment of oil was accepted for transportation through the pipe line system but this rule as well as the rates charged for the services was attacked before the commission in a complaint filed by Brundred Brothers, a concern engaged in producing and purchasing crude petroleum in the southwest

The commission held that the rates were not unreasonable but that the minimum placed upon shipment was too great, mentioning that the Texas railroad commission had fixed a minimum of 500 barrels for shipment wholly within that state and required the pipe line companies to accept such amount.

The order issued in the case restricted the commission's ruling solely to the movement of petroleum from the three states and to the two refining points in Pennsylvania mentioned

Community Stage School Develops Talent

JONATHA JONES, CHILD ACTRESS

By MABEL FONDA GAREISSEN
Director, Children's Theatre Guild of Rochester, N Y

The next national step in education will be the children's theatre.

We have started it as a community movement in Rochester and the results have been so splendid that I foresee its adoption by cities all over the country

The dramatic field for little folk has far-reaching possibilities. It is high time that children learned what constitutes good drama and good acting Otherwise there will be no development in the American stage

Plenty of fine music is written expressly for children but there is very little dramatic literature for them

We cannot begin too early to teach children good taste and high standards not only in music but in drama The children's theatre need not be merely a school to make actors and actresses It will teach poise and personality, cultivate the speaking voice and raise the standard of English

Astonishing gifts are disclosed in little folk Our experience in bringing together 60 Rochester children in a community dramatic class almost makes me believe in reincarnation' Where does genius come from"

Here we have a little Bernhardt and a tiny Julia Marlowe!

Our 'Bernhardt' is seven-year-old Jonatha Jones. She is realism itself—a wonderful actress in depicting terror, anger, anguish, tragedy

Our littlest prodigy is a beautiful child of six—Rosa Apple, who is a second Marlowe Everyone calls her 'Rosy Apple.' Her parents are Russian and Rosa was born after they landed in New York Her dramatic imagination is amazing she tosses her long shining, black curls and twists our hearts in painful pleasure with her irresistible smile and charm.

A little Polish girl in the class is a second Maude Adams The Herwit twins seem to be the coming Dolly sisters. And we have a young Frank Mayo, an embyro Willie Collier and a budding Faversham

Children of genius like these are hidden away in the school rooms of every city Can't we discover them and help them make something of their genius? A national children's theatre movement would be an immense forward step in child education.

The item in Thursday's Times referring to Mrs R. L Hargrave's removal to New Orleans should have stated that Mrs May Hargrave would leave soon to accompany her son, Hobart, to New Orleans, where he will enter Tulane university.

"Spank, Mother, Spank With Care"

(Roy K. Moulton may have written this 'on the spur of the moment" all right, but it does justice to a conviction that a lot of folks have had for the past few years An epidemic of old-fashioned spankings, prayerfully administered might do a lot to induce a return to normalcy among the early-teen age generation)

A New Jersey mother a scrapper,
In raising a boisterous child
The mother says she is a flapper
Who travels around with the wild
So, mamma has picked out a shingle,
And now she informs the whole world
She is going to make one flapper tingle
This judgment she grimly has hurled

When girls hang around with cake-eaters
And show an abundance of nerve
With flat wheelers, lizards and cheaters,
A spanking is what they deserve"
So hisses this parent commanding
This old-fashioned home autocrat,
And Rosie will eat her meals standing
For quite a long time after that

And so this stern parent, in passion,
May bring an old remedy back
The whole country take up the fashion
And echo the New Jersey whack
Take warning in time, young cake-eaters,
Take warning O fatuous simp,
For next time you happen to meet her
Your flapper may flap—with a limp

DEFINITE RESULTS ARE REPORTED IN BUY AT HOME MOVE

OIL COMPANIES TO OBTAIN AUTO ACCESSORIES AT HOME HEREAFTER.

WHOLESALE GROCER TELLS OF JOBBERS' SHIPMENTS

Says Retailers Save Nothing By Buying Direct Through "Drop Shipments."

Definite and substantial results of the "buy-at-home" campaign which the business council of the chamber of commerce has been conducting for several weeks were reported at the weekly luncheon of the council Friday, when it was announced that arrangements had been perfected whereby large oil companies, and like concerns which have been buying large supplies of automobile accessories out of town, will hereafter get them locally.

The purchases, which have been running well into the tens of thousands of dollars annually, were made elsewhere because of better prices; this advantage has now been offset locally.

Another problem for the committee which has this campaign in hand was brought by L E Whitley of Carroll - Brough - Robinson - Gates, wholesale grocers, who said that many retail grocers were in the habit of buying what is known as "drop shipments," that is, 100-pound shipments which come direct from the factory and in the making of which the jobber has nothing to do save book the order and make the collection.

There is absolutely no advantage in price on these shipments, Mr. Whitley pointed out, and there is at least a slight disadvantage in time and service. The argument that gets the retailer, Mr. Whitley pointed out, is that he is buying his goods "direct from factory," and dodging a few middlemen; Mr Whitley declared that the jobber got his profit on the shipment just the same, so that no advantage accrued to the retailer.

Mr Whitley told of an incident that had come to his knowledge, in which two local housewives resolved to take advantage of the exceptional "bargains" offered in another north Texas city After spending about $50 for fare and hotel bills, he said, they bought their clothing from local merchants

Eugene Liepold reported on his successful effort to land the 1923 convention of the Retail Clothiers Association of Texas, in which contest Wichita Falls defeated Galveston by three votes. Mr. Liepold said that he had promised to try and secure special hotel rates for the convention, and in this connection he mentioned complaints from traveling men as to the sample room rates charged by the Kemp

This elicited a reply from J. H. Stafford new manager of the Kemp, who said that the sample rates were figured on a space basis and that the prices quoted were as low as could be profitably made

Business houses had taken their losses, Mr Stafford pointed out, since boom days; but the hotel could not do this because its rent was not as high as during the boom and if there were anybody to take the loss it was the men who owned the hotel

The business council voted to send delegates to the west Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Plainview and the Colorado-to-Gulf association meeting at Amarillo, late this month

WOMAN'S COMPLEX LIFE

Woman's complex life with its multitudinous calls is given as the reason for many a nervous breakdown. Home work, social obligations, dressmaking and the care of children keep the 20th century woman in a whirlwind of activity until headaches develop, backache, nervousness and oftentimes more serious ills which are peculiar to her sex alone Such women should not despair, but be guided by the letters so often published in this paper from women who have been in just such conditions but who have been restored to health by Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

This is a root and herb medicine that contains no drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.—adv.

FINDS POKER GAME IN OFFICE BUILDING, PLAYERS PAY FINES

A poker game in the very heart of the business district, in one of the city's largest office buildings, in fact, ran afoul of the law late Thursday afternoon when Ranger Koonsman and Detective Shook rudely interrupted the entertainment and placed five men under arrest. All of the victims were business men.

In police court Friday morning four $10 fines were duly recorded and a $15 bond that had been made by the fifth member was declared forfeited.

The court collected, in all, $150 cash from a score of offenders brought before the bar of justice This exceeded by $5 the total taken in Thursday evening, all of which indicates that Judge Chauncey and Special Prosecutor Gipson are vindicating the contention that police court revenues should be more than enough to pay prosecution charges

Traffic violations made up most of the cases tried Friday, the motorcycle squad and patrolmen in the down town district having put in a busy twenty-four hours rounding up speeders, wrong parking offenders and similar violators of the law. Judge Chauncey has warned all of these that he is "not running a collection agency and that he intends breaking up these minor infractions of the law"

Minimum fines have been assessed thus far, but the judge has declared that "repeaters," those arrested a second time, will find out how high the maximum penalties can mount.

Four intoxication charges were disposed of and a negro man, arrested Wednesday morning after he had just hit town from Burkburnett and had beaten up a negro woman on general principles, was ordered turned over to county officials on charges of assault and battery. The testimony of the woman as given in court indicated that the assault was of an aggravated character

RESIDENTS OF SCOTLAND ADDITION WANT ONE OF SCHOOLS LOCATED THERE

More than 130 residents of the Scotland addition have signed a petition to the school board asking that one of the new school buildings to be built with money from the bond issue to be voted Saturday, be located in that addition.

H. M Kaufhold, who has circulated the petition, says that there are about 150 children of school age in the addition and that a school is badly needed there.

The petitions says:

"We, the undersigned, understand that there are two new schools to be erected in this city. We feel that we are in need of a school in this addition more so than any other addition, as the river is between us and the schools in town and the railroads between us and the north side schools."

The petition will be laid before before the school board at an early date

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14:3.

Think a little less of your sorrows, and more of your joys, for the joys will make you grateful and gratitude is in itself one of the most beautiful pleasures of the soul.—Stopford Brooke.

HOW HE GOT RICH.

Most of the money you have made, so far in life, has passed out of your hands and into one of the cash registers manufactured by John H. Patterson, dead now at the age of 77.

Patterson was a wizard of psychology.

He knew the science of making money, knew it "from soup to nuts." From his life, you can learn much that may help you get rich.

Patterson's greatest legacy to the future is scientific salesmanship, of which he was the step-father.

His factory, the National Cash Register Company, had the first school in our country devoted exclusively to salesmanship as a science or art. The idea was imported from Germany.

In this school, Patterson's drummers were taught the answer to every possible objection or question that might be raised by a prospective cash register buyer.

From this, learn the value of thoroughness in everything.

Learn, also, what Patterson instinctively knew—that success is largely a matter of salesmanship. No matter how wonderful your work, ideas or products, they will bring you success only in proportion to your ability to sell them profitably.

Ignorance of the principles of salesmanship keeps many a man and woman working for a fraction of what they could get if they developed a greater market for their stuff, through salesmanship.

Maybe you wonder why you sometimes see, in a small store, a cash register worth as much as the store's whole stock.

The answer is: Patterson spread the value of protecting money against theft and keeping accurate, analytical records—both functions combined in the cash register.

It's a good deal like a business that has $500 invested in a safe that never holds more than $200.

The Patterson method of appealing to a prospective buyer was to show the buyer how to protect his cash against loss and how to run his business so it would at all times show him just where he stood, also reveal lines of unprofitable effort.

Patterson made money by showing other people how to make money. The customers came first, Patterson second. Usually it's the other way, cart before the horse. That's why so few small businesses attain the size of the National Cash Register Company.

John H. Patterson was one of the business giants now rapidly fading into eternity. He was in the class with James J. Hill, Andrew Carnegie, Henry Flagler, John D. Rockefeller, John Wanamaker and other pioneer leaders of industry.

These men were the kind Horatio Alger wrote about—from poor boy to riches. They proved that the platitudes, much laughed at, get the money.

And their lives are indelible lessons to young men of today who grumble at having to start at the bottom of the ladder.

VOTE FOR THE SCHOOL BONDS SATURDAY.

The Times wishes again to urge the tax paying voters in the Wichita Falls independent school district to vote Saturday for the school bonds.

It is hardly conceivable that bonds for such a purpose could be defeated in a community like Wichita Falls, but it will be a good thing for every voter favoring the bond issue to go to the polls and register his endorsement of the proposal and a large affirmative vote will aid in the sale of the bonds. The latter reason is one of considerable importance, for even those who may oppose the bond issue will certainly wish that the bonds having been voted will bring the best price possible.

As has been stated the purpose of the bond issue is to provide money to build a new high school building in connection with which it is proposed to have a junior college, and to provide funds for other school buildings and the enlargement of some of those already built. Wichita Falls has one of the finest public school systems in the southwest but the schools are overcrowded and a new high school building is an absolute necessity if education is to be provided for all of the young people of Wichita Falls who want it.

The bond issue which the voters are asked to authorize in Saturday's election will give Wichita Falls adequate and splendid physical equipment for its schools and no greater good than this could be conceived. In the opinion of this paper the extension of its educational facilities will be one of the most important things for Wichita Falls that has ever been undertaken and will be the most important developments for Wichita Falls that its people have ever undertaken.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the congressional election Saturday. Voters ought not to forget the school bond issue. Remember that there is only one voting place for the school bonds. That is at the city hall. After you have voted for congressman, or before, go to the city hall and vote for the school bonds.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY FRIEND

There is something very beautiful to the sound of "my friend." It means so much. As though a great calamity should come and I should say to myself: "Well, I have my friend to go to for comfort, advice and inspiration."

My friend!

I sat talking the other evening with my friend Don Herold. He is a mind that is friendly. He brought up the topic of conversation—useless things.

"I believe that I like useless things more and more," he said—"the unnecessary rosiness of sunsets, the playfulness of children, the extravagance of Gothic architecture, the wag of a dog's tail."

I have been thinking a great deal about this subject of useless things since this talk with my friend. I walked about my yard and saw little strange flowers peking their yellow, blue, white and purple heads from the ground along the edge of where I walked. And I thought how really useless they were in themselves, but how full of importance to me—for I love them.

And I look at my walls covered with pictures of rare beauty, doing no service there—except to make me happy that they are there.

What a thing to have a friend to talk things over with!

Tonight as I was about to go to my home, someone came to me and took my arm. I looked up and there was one of my finest friends—his face so full of genuineness and worth, a man clean in mind and inspiring in the work which he does, a man among men no matter where you meet him.

I do not know what I would do if I couldn't "finger over" in my mind the names of those whom I delight to recall as my friends.

How worth while all things are when you can truly say that "my friend understands."

I like folks to introduce me to other and strange folks as "my friend." I am highly honored and at once made distinguished.

God means something to me when I think of Him as—my friend!

JUST FOLKS —By— Edgar A. Guest

LEARN FROM THE ROBIN.

A robin underneath the eaves
A nest of wondrous pattern weaves.

The cat who watches from below,
Exclaims: "That's much too high to go.

"I'll show you Misstress Robin now,
A most unusual apple bough.

"A little nook where you may be
The leading couple of the tree.

"There you may teach your babes to fly
And keep on them a watchful eye."

"Better up here," the robin said,
"Than have to fear your stealthy tread.

"Better the long high flight each day
Than have you steal my babes away."

So high beneath the sheltering eaves
Her nest the careful robin weaves

But men and women, not so wise,
Still rear their young where danger lies.

They heed the blandishment of cheats
And chance the hazard of the streets.

For pleasure's whim they build their homes
Where the sly cat forever roams.

SMILE A WHILE

By TOM SIMS

One paper prints a chapter from the Bible a day. It is news, and good news, to some people.

A man may be down, but never out unless he is down in the mouth.

If the coal strike keeps up there will be a slate shortage.

Fact that there are bootleggers is proof they don't drink the kind of stuff they sell.

In Paris they have a dog bath house. Bathing gone to the bow-wows.

Boarders realize there's no place like home when they see strawberries on the market and prunes on the table.

Oysters are noted for silence, and they get a four-month vacation.

In New Jersey, a man claims a ghost chased him 40 blocks. Prohibition, where are you?

Our idea of a fine thing not to do is laugh at a policeman's wife.

Educators looking for a new Shakespeare must make their old one do.

In North Dakota, a man has whiskers 17 feet long. A clean shirt must last him a month.

Some of them dress as if they intended being wrapped in slumber.

Sometimes it looks as if the movie villain sets the price.

Saxophone players go in bands. It's dangerous to play one alone.

If summer comes, can the flies be far behind?

The wages of sin is debt.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

GRANDSON.

Georges Frederique Gatineau, grandson of "Tiger" Clemenceau, has been looking for a job in Saxonville, Mass.

He is said to have spent 1,000,000 francs in less than a year. This followed his European university education.

More recently he has been shoveling coal on ocean freighters and working in American textile mills. It is a different type of education, but sometimes more profitable.

BOOZE.

The best booze cartoon ever printed showed a quart bottle of whiskey on a table, at which sat a young man writing. 'Twenty years from now, I promise to pay John Barleycorn the lion's share of my health and potential earning power, also years of my life."

Prohibition may have as many holes as a sieve. But it has accomplished one thing: Fewer people are mortgaging their futures over to John Barleycorn. Not much danger of many "getting the habit" at $12 a quart.

WAYWARD.

A wealthy New York manufacturer was repeatedly robbed by his son. Finally he had the lad arrested. With tears in his eyes, he has just heard the judge sentence the thief to three years in the penitentiary.

The father says he became convinced that his son was a confirmed criminal and that "it was my duty to protect society."

What would you have done, in his shoes?

Men and women usually never know what trouble is until they have a family. There is no reason why this should be, except that there's something wrong with the system of economics and child training.

SELFISHNESS.

Gabriel Wells, who buys the original manuscript of a story by Charles Dickens, pays $120 a page.

Why pay so much when he could buy the same story, printed, at half a cent a page or less?

The answer is obvious. Wells pays the big price for "the only specimen"—something that cannot be duplicated.

The craving for possession of rare things is instinctive in most people. It is a mild outcropping of selfishness, the regulator of the individual's system of economics.

GOLD.

Russian money gets so worthless that the soviet has decided to discard "the gold system." As soon as plans are worked out, it announces, it will base its money on a day's work or "so much goods," instead of gold.

That will be the system in the future, when men will be more fair in their dealings, each with a thorough knowledge of economics.

It is idealistic, but it will not work now, under the profits system by which an equivalent exchange of labor or commodities is impossible. You cannot trade dollar for dollar when everyone is trying to get two-for-one.

SELF-ROBBERY.

An 18-year-old girl cashier is under arrest in Portland, Maine. She is charged with stealing money to buy an auto.

This makes talk, because it involves "other people's money."

Might be a good idea to have a law against people stealing from themselves—buying things they can not afford. For instance, owning an expensive car before they own a home.

Self-robbery does us more harm than holdups. However, it's a free country and self-robbery is the victim's own business.

Texas Viewpoints

Dallas News: Austin is the capital of Texas in matters of government and perhaps in culture also. Within its borders sit the highest tribunals of human justice established within the state. And yet it was in Austin—in the center of the business district of Congress avenue, in fact—that a negro was knocked on the head Monday and hauled away as if such occurrences were of no consequence whatever. According to the account received by The News, the negro was a farm hand come to town for work, and was slugged by unmasked white men in broad open daylight, dragged into the car and whisked out of town. The whole thing was done in the presence of at least one witness who was able to report it to the press. The dispatch makes no mention of any arrests or investigation. The violation of law involved in this occurrence is just as complete and just as flagrant as if Pat M. Neff had been hit on the head by thugs a few blocks from his gubernatorial suite of offices and carted out of Austin. But neither Mr. Neff nor the city of Austin seems to be excited at any kind of lawless violence within the very shadow of the capitol building. The life of a citizen, black or white, is none too precious in any Texas city, it must be admitted, but it must cause the citizens of Mexia to wonder a bit that a negro field hand can't go down a sidewalk of the capital of Texas without running the risk of getting his skull cracked by the occupants of a car that happens to drive up to the curb. At the worst of conditions in Mexia negroes were not being brained on bank corners. In the minds of some, no doubt, it is of no importance what becomes of a friendless negro who is out of a job and in a strange town. There are plenty of Texans, apparently, to whom it is of no concern that almost any law or every law can be disregarded by a gang acting in conformity to a conspiracy of their own concocting. Stealing a horse in Texas is still a crime, and stealing an automobile is a science of low standing, but striking down a defenseless man on the street in plain view of the populace is a sort of diversion for the beholders kindly vouchsafed by the assailants.

* *

Amarillo Tribune: Anti-prohibitionists do not expect the eighteenth amendment to be set aside by the American people but every effort known to political strategy will be put forth to nullify all prohibition laws. A well known press correspondent in Washington points out that the amendment in itself does not prohibit but merely gives congress the power to enact prohibitory regulations and it is on that theory that the antis are relying to render the amendment ineffective. This explains why prohibition will continue to be an issue for some years yet.

Don't Be Tired

By DR R H BISHOP

Be careful that you are not in a constant state of exhaustion.

For fatigue is a great underlying cause of sickness. An exhausted body offers practically no resistance to the attacks of disease germs.

When you use your muscles you burn up the system's supply of energy and leave certain by-products, like carbon in an automobile engine, which combine to depress and tire. The tiring of one muscle will often tire others, thus bringing about complete bodily exhaustion.

Tight clothing will always aid in tiring one quickly, for it will check the function of the arteries in bringing their proper supply of energy to the tiring muscles.

One grade of gasoline will give the automobile engine more power and endurance than another and so some forms of food will supply more energy than others. Sugar, though not advisable as a steady diet, is immediately converted into energy. That is why soldiers on the march are often fed chocolate and why children who use up a great deal of energy in play crave sweet foods.

Working steadily, but not too fast, the muscles have the chance to throw off the refuse products, at the same time bringing in new fuel or energy for further work.

Rest is the great repairer of muscles. Rest gives the muscles the time which they must have to get rid of their poisons and replace their small store of energy.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is disparage.

It's pronounced—dis-par-aj, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—to depreciate, to cheapen, to detract from.

It comes from—the Latin prefix "dis," signifying the reversal of an action, and "par," also Latin, meaning equal.

It's used like this—"Residents of San Francisco and Los Angeles seldom miss an opportunity to disparage, each, the city of the other."

Nitroglycerin, powerful explosive, is also one of the most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science.

Linda Lee, by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

©1921 by Louis Joseph Vance

"Thought I'd look in on your party. You know, you asked me——"

She could not trust her tongue. If she said more in her anger, she would say too much. She cried all in a breath. "Well, go away then! I don't want you, I won't have you!"—and pushing past Bel, fled into the cloakroom.

He drew himself up sharply and ironed out all indications of his embarrassment, assuming what he believed to be a look of haughty indifference.

His gaze focused intelligently upon the glass case that displays the wares of the hotel florist. Women liked flowers. But there were four in Linda's party, her guests would think it funny if he joined them, bringing flowers for his wife only * * * A tough problem. He decided to step round to the club and mull it over * * *

He had disappeared by the time Lucinda showed herself again Outwardly mistress of herself, she resumed her chair as Richard Daubeney passed with his luncheon party and made directly for her corner Instantaneously Lucinda experienced a slight psychic shock and found herself again the self-contained the young woman of the world whom nothing could dismay.

Dobbin knew everybody except the Lontaines, and when the flutter created by his introduction had subsided, he found a chair by Lucinda's side and when the conversation swung to a pageant he took advantage of the general interest to detach Lucinda's attention

"I couldn't resist the temptation to butt in, Cinda Hope you don't mind"

"It's always nice to see you"

"I can see you're troubled about something because I know so much better than anybody else I'll lay long odds no one else has noticed anything, but to my seeing eyes you've been flying signals of distress all during luncheon That being so, it wouldn't be decent of me not to give you a hail and stand by in case I'm needed—now would it?"

Momentarily Lucinda contended against temptation Then, "You are a dear Dobbin," she said almost regretfully. "But it isn't fair of you to see too much If it's true I have secrets I don't want to share, it would be kinder to let me keep them—don't you think?"

Jean Sedley was claiming her attention. "What do you think of that, Cindy? Isn't it a ripping idea?"

"Afraid I didn't hear—I was flirting with Dobbin"

"Yes, I know. But Mr Lontaine has just made a priceless suggestion about the pageant He says we can have moving-pictures taken, as we enter the ballroom and shown before the evening is over"

"I don't know," Lucinda demurred "It must be a weird sensation."

"Not one of you need be afraid of," Lontaine promised "If you don't mind my saying so, you would screen wonderfully, Mrs Druce"

"You think so, really?"

"Tell you what," Lontaine offered eagerly: "suppose you take test, what? No trouble at all to fix it up for you. Take us all, for that matter just as we are What do you say?"

"I say it's perfectly splendid!" Jean Sedley declared. "We'd all love it When can you arrange it?"

"This afternoon, if that suits everybody. Only have to telephone, and in half an hour they'll be all ready for us. Shall I?" Lontaine got out of his chair. "Do say yes, all of you Mrs Druce? I know the others will if you do?"

"I don't mind," Lucinda agreed hesitatingly.

"Right-O! Give me five minutes * * *"

VII

As Lontaine had promised so had he performed. This cinema chap he knew, Culp had professed himself only too delighted

With two cars at its disposal, the party split up into threes, Mrs Sedley, Mrs. Guest, and Lontaine leading the way. On the point of entering her car after Fanny, however, Lucinda recalled her bridge engagement and turned back to telephone that she would be late

Having seen no more of Bellamy since their encounter she had dismissed the possibility of his returning The surprise was so much the more unwelcome consequently, when on leaving the booth she saw her husband, with his hat on the back of his head and his arms full of lavender orchids, wavering irresolutely in the entrance of the Palm Room, surveying with a dashed expression its now all but deserted spaces With sickening contempt Lucinda made hastily for the revolving door

Simultaneously Bel caught sight of her and, with a blurred travesty of his really charming smile and a faltering parody of that air of gallant alacrity which she had once thought so engaging, moved to intercept Lucinda And finding her escape cut off she paused and awaited him with a stony countenance

Reverently the Barbarians tiptoed into the studio.

"Ah! there you are eh Linda! 'Fraid I'd missed you Sorry couldn't get back sooner, but——"

"I'm not," Lucinda interrupted

"But—look here, Linda be reasonable——"

"I think I have been—what you call reasonable—long enough—too long!"

Bellamy hesitated, nervously moistening his lips

"Here—take these flowers, won't you Plenty for you and all your friends"

Again Lucinda defeated his attempt to disburden himself 'Oh, Bel!' she cried sadly— how can you be such a fool?"

"How'm I a fool? Thought I was going to please you * * * I've made arrangements to have the afternoon free just to be with you We'll go somewhere"

"We will not," Lucinda told him inflexibly

"I don't mind tagging along——"

"Sorry but I don't want you"

Injudiciously again, Bellamy elected to show his teeth 'See here where are you going? I've got a right to know——"

"Have you Bel? Think again. I never ask you such questions If I did you'd either lose your temper or lie to me, and justify yourself by asserting that no man ought to be asked to stand prying into his affairs So—I leave you to your affairs—and only ask that you leave me to mine

Neither spoke in that clash of wills until Bellamy's weakened, his eyes shifted and he stepped aside, slightly sobered.

"Please!" he begged in a turn of pentinence. "Didn't mean * * * had to pull myself together somehow to talk business at luncheon——"

"Oh! It was a business luncheon, then?" asked Lucinda sweetly, pausing

"Of course"

"You leave me to infer that your affair with Amelie has reached the point where you take her to the Clique club to talk terms" Bellamy's jaw sagged, his eyes were blank with consternation. "What else do you wish me to think, Bellamy?"

He made a pitiable effort to pull himself together. "Look here, Linda you're all wrong about this—misinformed. I can explain—Dainn it, you can't refuse——!"

"Can't I? Go home, Bel get some sleep When you wake up, if you still think you have anything to say—consider it carefully before you ask me to listen. Remember what I tell you now: you've lied to me for the last time, one more lie will end everything between us, finally and for all time!"

VIII

On the far West Side, the broughan drew to a shuddering stop before a row of brick buildings That they were united in one service was proved by the legend running from end to end of the row beneath its second-story windows

ALMA DALEY STUDIOS—CULP CINEMAS, INC. — BEN CULP PRES'T

This was the nursery in which what Mr Culp (or his press agent) had brilliantly imaged as the youngest fairest sister of the plastic arts was fostering the finest flower of its expression, to-wit, the artistry of Alma Daley, in private life, Mrs. Culp

With every symptom of disgust the doorkeeper growled at Lontaine "Yees kin g'wan up—but moind yer ather they's a darrrk turn in the sthairs" He pressed a button and a wire door swung back, the party filed through and stumbled up two flights of creaking stairs to a tiny landing upon which a number of doors stood all closed, each sternly stencilled PRIVATE

One of the doors opened hastily and ejected a nervously ingratiating young man, Mr. Lane secretary to Mr Culp He shook each visitor warmly by the hand then threw wide another of the PRIVATE doors

"This is the main stage, ladies Miss Daley is working on one of the sets now making the final scenes of her latest picture 'The Girl in the Dark' so if you'll be kind enough not to talk out loud * * * Miss Daley is very, er, temperamental, you understand * * *"

Reverently the barbarians tiptoed into the studio and huddled in an awe-stricken group

SUGGESTS JUNIOR COLLEGE BE USED BY ALL OF COUNTY

G. C. WOOD URGES NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOL BOARD'S ADOPTION.

A suggestion that the junior college to be established here if the $850,000 bond issue carries Saturday, be made a county college instead of merely a school district institution has been advanced by G C Wood president of the chamber of commerce and is being considered by the school board Mr Wood expressed his view of the matter as follows

Why cannot Wichita county as a whole get behind the junior college, and let it be for the whole county of Wichita and make it one of the best schools of its kind anywhere in the southwest?

A very small tax for the support of the college levied by the county—provided it can be legally done—would give us a wonderful school in this section It could serve the whole county and could draw some outside patronage from other counties provided they would pay their way through the school The tax would be so very small that it would be insignificant, and the school built on such a basis that there would be no room for any criticism

Every department that is necessary for a junior college could be maintained in perfect, and it would at once take rank above any other school in Texas of its kind I believe the board can work out a plan whereby the benefits and advantages of a junior college could be enjoyed by every young man and woman in the county"

To the public

I noticed a political advertisement in this morning's Record-News from the Bullington campaign committee one statement of which was that someone went, under cover of darkness, to the negro section aroused many of the negroes, and with promises of compensation persuaded some of them to conspicuously display advertising matter in the windows of their homes

This forenoon I went to the negro section of Wichita Falls and made a thorough investigation of this matter and found that this statement was absolutely false, and in my opinion was only put in the paper for the purpose of deceiving the public No trace of any literature could be found in the negro section nor had even been heard of in that section prior to the advertisement in the morning Record-News All that was found there of political nature was the pictures and platforms of Orville Bullington

"HOW MUCH WOULD YOU INVEST IN US?" CHILDREN INQUIRE

Headed by the high school orchestra and bearing numberless banners descriptive of the school bond issue to be voted on tomorrow, approximately 3,000 local public school children paraded the business district streets Friday afternoon advertising the necessity of more educational facilities in Wichita Falls.

The parade started from the high school where most of the marching youngsters assembled. It was joined at various points by delegations from schools in the outlying district of the city and by the time it reached the main business section the line extended for blocks.

"Vote the school bond issue tomorrow," "How much would you invest in us?" "We need a new high school and a new junior college" and similar legends apepared on the banners carried in the marching ranks

The parade was arranged by school officials as a reminder of the election Saturday at which the voters of Wichita Falls will decide whether or not the city is to have a new high school and junior college building in the near future. The $850,000 bond issue will be voted on at but one box—that at the city hall.

IT NEVER HAPPENED

A campaign advertisement was placed in the Record News in this morning's issue by Bullington's Campaign Committee, whoever they may be, stating among other things that someone had gone to their headquarters and gotten a large assortment of campaign advertising matter and put it in the nigger section of this place. We denounce this as untrue and a political trick, and the party who wrote the advertisement and had it placed in the paper as such knew that it was untrue, and upon investigation by the police department of this city, no such facts could be substantiated.

We are reliably informed that someone purporting to be a Republican has distributed some campaign photographs of a letter, and we charge this letter to be a fake, and neither Mr. Morgan nor anyone else for him has had anything to do with this matter and the party who wrote this circular and had the same printed knew that it was false and untrue, and we denounce it as a campaign dodge used for the purpose of defeating Mr. Morgan. Mr. Bullington is not here and in justice to him, we do not believe that he had anything to do with this fake advertisement.

FINAL WORD

To the Voters of the Thirteenth Congressional District

The campaign is drawing to a close. S. A. L. Morgan and his campaign committee and friends, have made a clean, vigorous, open campaign on live issues. They have refused to stoop to the bowery politics of some of their adversaries. They have made their claim for support wholly upon merit and the best interests of the citizens of this district.

They have not been concerned with the falling out of Mr. Bullington and his Republican negro friends. This effort to raise a racial prejudice in this district when none exists is too contemptible to appeal to sensible people. The fact remains that in August, 1920, Mr. Bullington, who has now fallen out with his negro friends, sat in the Republican convention at Dallas as a delegate with many negro delegates. We would not refer to this, but for the statement in a Henrietta paper of a supposed letter written by a supposed organization in New York (without any address) to a dead negro in Texas, and who has been dead for many days. The fact remains that it is a white man's country, and S. A. L. Morgan stands, where he has always stood, for the supremacy of the white race. He does know that it is contemptible, however, to try to raise racial prejudice against a small minority of negroes living in this district.

Having carried on the campaign in a clean, honorable, open manner, we propose to close it in the same manner, but to warn you against the eleventh-hour propaganda of irresponsible paid advetisers and representatives.

In closing we thank you most sincerely for your kind support and influence.

Visiting the Leper Isle of Molokai

Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

It Is Not at All the Pest House Which We Usually Think of as a Place to Be Avoided

By J. Franklin Stevens

"GIVE a dog a bad name and"—that is the trouble with Molokai The popular conception among those who have heard of Molokai, and even among those who have visited the Hawaiian Islands, is that the island is an exclusively leper settlement, a pest house on a large scale, to be spoken of with a shudder and by all means to be avoided. The mental picture is of a small bleak island inhabited only by maimed and suffering lepers, with a few devoted people who have severed all human ties in order to give to the afflicted exiles some little medical or religious comfort. The effect is heightened by the fact that nearly all steamers pass the island at night, as though even the sight of it was to be avoided, and that virtually no information on it is available even locally in Honolulu. It would seem to be the sort of place one does not even discuss.

All of this aroused my interest, so I determined to visit the tabu isle and see it for myself Such information as I could gather sounded interesting, even though it was pointed out to me that the beaten paths were safer and that, out of the many who had come to Honolulu this winter, only four people, and of these four two were writers seeking local color, had visited the island, that there were no hotels; that the steamer was poor and the connections worse.

The very efficient Hawaii Tours Company took an intelligent interest in my proposed trip and made my path easy They wirelessed one of the natives, asking if he would take care of my little party, put us up at his house and drive us around the island On receipt of his cordial assent they secured accommodations for us on the steamer and gave us introductions to our prospective host

Accordingly on a sunny afternoon in mid-February we boarded a tiny inter-island steamer, the Likelike by name and with the veteran Captain Bill in command set sail—this is literal for the Likelike carried both sail and steam power—for the port of Kaunakakai, island of Molokai

The port of Kaunakakai is fifty-two miles from Honolulu thirty-two of which are across the channel lying between the island of Oahu and Molokai It is a rough channel and our boat was some roller, but we forgot most of the discomfort in listening to Captain Bill's stories of his forty years of cruising in the South Seas and his tales of adventure among the cannibal and other tribes he visited and traded with on the islands south of the Equator.

About 1 A M we tied up at the Kaunakakai dock and were cordially greeted by our host Kahinu, together with most of the other inhabitants of the village We found the dock was three quarters of a mile long, but there was a mule tram to take us to the beach; so we, with all the freight and all the natives and passengers, were loaded aboard and slowly mule drawn to shore

A short trip by auto and we were at the home of our host and were assigned the royal quarters, for his house had originally been the home of Kamehameha V There was not much to remind one of royalty in the plain board house the grass walls and thatch roof having been boarded over, but it was immaculately clean and the rooms and porches were spacious

In the morning we learned something of the island and found it was a beautiful tropic isle rich in vegetation, with peaceful valleys and high rugged mountains The island has an area of 261 square miles, with five ports and as many villages and a population outside of the leper settlement of some 1200

SHORTLY after breakfast we started on our drive to the Pali or cliff on the windward side of the island overlooking the "Settlement" This is the local name and no reference is ever made by the natives to the lepers unless you directly question them The sight from the Pali is beautiful, for, standing at the edge, you look down the almost vertical face of the cliff to the ocean breaking against the base some 1700 feet below A little to the right is the "Settlement," a low flat point stretching toward the sea, some eight square miles in area and completely cut off on the landward side by the high, impassable cliffs There is but one trail leading down the cliffs, and that is a steep and winding path six miles long which is most carefully guarded There is an approach from the sea at the port of Kalaupapa, which is the official name of the colony, and this likewise is carefully guarded

Within the "Settlement" are some 490 lepers with about 200 attendants It is a clean, beautiful and prosperous looking village surrounded by gardens and small farms And it is prosperous, for they told me the weekly surplus banked by the inhabitants was about $2000 in coin They have a weekly steamer service bringing in all sorts of supplies, including ten movie reels each week, and an average of one automobile each trip

Leprosy seems now to be entirely under control in the Hawaiian Islands New cases as they develop are taken to the receiving station at Honolulu and given the chaulmoogra oil treatment So successful has been this oil treatment that cases are constantly being discharged under observation parole and for two years it has not been necessary to banish a single case to the Settlement at Kalaupapa Molokai in fact, the oil treatment given the mild cases in Molokai has resulted in a number of discharges from there

The roads in Molokai leave much to be desired Probably there are rougher ones, but not many so on the return trip we abandoned the road entirely and drove cross-country through the high pasture lands It was smoother and more interesting

AS WE crossed a large pasture Kahinu pointed out a barren point of land and said "That is due to caterpillars, a great pest here Do you know how they came to the island? Then he told us the Hawaiian legend of the genesis of the caterpillar

It seems that once upon a time there lived on Molokai an old couple who had a very beautiful daughter A fine looking man came courting her night after night and she fell in love with him The parents could find out nothing about him, but, as he seemed prosperous and their daughter loved him they consented to a marriage Some little time after the marriage their daughter fell ill and, on making inquiry of her learned that her illness was caused by worry

She explained that early every morning, while she still slept, her husband left the house and never returned until after sunset He refused to answer any questions as to where or how he spent his days, so his wife worried herself ill Much puzzled her parents sought the advice of a kahuna or witch who told them to spend a night with the young couple and to keep the husband awake until nearly dawn and then to watch and follow him This they did permitting him to fall asleep just before dawn

As the sun rose he awoke and springing up rushed out of the door and, as the first rays of the sun struck him fell to the ground and turned into a great caterpillar They followed him and he took refuge in a hole under a large rock on a hill Guarding the hole they called their neighbors together and, as they could not lure him out built a fire at the entrance to the hole The heat became so intense that the body of the caterpillar swelled and burst the rock and then ascended as a great black cloud Rising high above them the cloud dissolved into millions of small caterpillars, which fell like rain over all the land And so came the caterpillar pest

It must be true for we saw the shattered rock where the man caterpillar had taken refuge and met his death.

The following day we drove along the leeward coast to the extreme eastern end of the island, over the mountain range to the windward side and wound down the mountains to the beautiful valley of Halawa, some twenty-eight miles from Kaunakakai. As we followed the lee coast we were constantly in sight of the island of Lanai from which we were separated by a narrow channel Lanai is a small island mostly mountains, 139 square miles in area, with a population of only 100 From the eastern end of Molokai we were in plain sight of Maui, second island of the group in size, having an area of 728 square miles and a population of 16,000

Halawa is a small native settlement in a narrow valley facing the sea completely shut in by high mountains which encircle it on the landward side and accessible only by the winding mountain road which we had traversed Four very beautiful waterfalls at the head of the valley unite to form the placid little river which flows through the village to the sea It is one of the most beautiful fertile and peaceful tropic valleys I have ever seen

Returning to Kaunakakai in time for dinner we embarked on the Likelike at 9 P M and after a rather rough passage reached Honolulu at the witching hour of 4 30 the next morning

The development of Molokai has just started having been held back for several reasons the principal one being that it was early designated as the site of the leper settlement and was regarded by the natives as a place of exile a pest hole to be avoided, an island across which was written large the legend "All ye who enter here leave hope behind" Then an enterprising citizen secured nearly one third of the island and established a game preserve for the entertainment of himself and his friends This is always an obstacle to development

A few years ago a corporation secured 1000 acres and planted it in sugar cane The usual method of irrigation by pumping from artesian wells was attempted but the water came in salt and the crop was ruined This land has now reverted and is mostly overgrown by algaroba

MORE recently the plateau country has been turned into cattle ranches and is doing well Bees were introduced and there is now a considerable export of honey the algaroba blossoms yielding a fine grade. Within the year an extensive acreage has been planted in pineapple with every prospect of success and dairy farming has been introduced on a large scale

Quite recently Molokai has been selected as the site for the development of the "back to the soil" movement for the natives 8000 acres have been set aside with 1000 more in reserve for division into twenty acre homestead farms The suggested plan is to rent the farms at $1 an acre per year and arrange for a long term note of $3000 a homestead to cover the cost of buildings, equipment and cattle.

The Greatest Golf Shots I Have Ever Seen

By Jesse P. Guilford

Amateur Golf Champion of the United States

LAST year at the Brookline Country Club in a match wherein Edward Ray and Harry Vardon were pitted against Francis Ouimet and myself, Ray on the fifteenth played a shot which caused the large gallery to gasp in astonishment, so impossible did it seem This hole measures about 360 yards, and Ray's second shot, a mashie, went over the green into the rough, where it lodged between two large tufts of grass Apparently the only thing which could be done was to strike in behind the ball in an effort to move it out of this position into a more playable lie Ray took his stance and with his trusty niblick hit behind the ball with all his might Out of the grass and earth which he uprooted emerged the little white pill, which landed on the green about three feet from the hole, and taking a little sideward kick it rolled in. After such a performance Francis and I, who had been on the green in two, were unable to hole our putts for a half, and so the British players became 1 up

Over this same course five or six years previously Francis Ouimet was playing a match with these same men from across the water not for exhibition purposes, however, though a tremendous gallery was following, but for the open title of the United States, these three having tied for the first place. The fifth hole on this course measures in the vicinity of 400 yards, and Francis after making a very good drive sliced his approach into the woods, from which it bounded, much to Francis' relief, out of bounds. At that time the penalty for out of bounds was loss of distance only, and had Francis' ball stayed within bounds it was such an impossible shot that it would mean at least two strokes before he would be able to reach the green Francis took particular care with his next shot which he laid on the green, and sunk his putt for a half with both Vardon and Ray, and he now attributes his victory to the luck which he had on that hole.

These lucky breaks, or perfectly played difficult shots, very often occur at such a time that it means the winning of the match The second year in which I competed for the New Hampshire State amateur and when I was defending my title I was eliminated by just such a shot, which was made by the late C. W. Bass, who was known as the best left-handed golfer in the country. We were playing the short thirteenth hole on the course in Rye Beach, N H, and had been having a nip and-tuck battle all the way Bass over-drove the green, which was guarded by a ditch about a foot deep, with perpendicular sides, and his ball rested against the back edge It looked like a sure win on this hole for me, as I was comfortably resting on the green, but Mr Bass not only laid his ball on the green, but it just hung over the cup, almost a perfect stymie being laid my ball, and the best which I could do was to halve the hole. Mr. Bass enjoyed the recollection of that hole immensely, and when I saw him shortly before his death he told me that it was the freakiest shot he had ever made

The tenth hole at the Woodland Golf Club my home course, is one which I believe causes many a golfer to shudder as he stands on the tee before driving off. This hole is 180 yards, but half way between the tee and the green which are on the same level, is an abrupt hill, which rises forty or fifty feet, and over which one shoots to the green on the other side Some years ago the club staged an exhibition match in which Ouimet and his brother in law, Jack Sullivan, played Paul Tewkesbury who is now one of Philadelphia's good golfers, and myself Coming to this hole Francis and Jack had the honor, and after each had played the caddies who stood at the top of the hill signaled that the balls were safely on the green Tewkesbury played next and a moment or two after the ball had left his club the caddies in wild excitement made it evident that he had made this blind hole in one!

For an array of trick shots which are performed intentionally there is no one who can beat Joe Kirkwood, the Australian professional, who toured this country this summer giving exhibitions of his wonder shots Oftentimes I have found myself in such a position that the ability to play out of a particular lie with my left hand would just meet the situation, but not being able to do so I would have to stab at it with my right hand. Kirkwood can play either way. He drives with his right hand or his left, getting practically the same distance with each Before he makes his shot he names it, so there is no danger of his performance being accidental, and he slices, or pulls, drives a low or high ball or drives perfectly straight at will I think Kirkwood's best stunt is the bunker shot, in which he tees a ball on the side of the bunker and plays it over his head The stymie tricks which this Australian shows are marvelous, and one has but to see him play a full niblick and catch it to realize that he is a wonder at trick shots

There are many times when these trick shots would come in handy if we could but do them and there are also many times when we perform wonder shots purely in accident To make a hole in one or to hole out from a seemingly impossible lie gives the thrill that comes but once in a lifetime, and makes us exclaim with Briggs! "Ain't it a grand and glorious feelin'?"

'CANNED HEAT' USED FOR JAG PURPOSES, COURT IS INFORMED

The search for something with a kick in it developed something new Friday morning

A middle-aged man arraigned in police court on a charge of disturbing the peace, testified that a shot of "canned heat" used for small cooking outfits had been the source of his enthusiasm.

The preparation in question is supposed to consist mainly of wood alcohol The men said he used it in small quantities, as he needed a stimulant. He appeared slightly palsied as he leaned on the rail before Judge Chauncey.

"What's the matter with your arm?" asked Judge Chauncey.

"An officer broke it," was the reply. The man said that a deputy constable had broken the arm and inflicted a wound on the head, in arresting him several weeks ago On that occasion, he said, he pleaded guilty to drunkenness and paid a fine.

The prisoner indicated to the court that "canned meat" gave him better results for less money than anything else he had tried.

Judge Chauncey passed the case for further investigation.

FIRST ELECTRICAL DISPLAY SIGN HERE GOES INTO DISCARD

Among the many electrical signs being changed or removed in the business district this week, in compliance with the ordinance which becomes effective June 1, is the big diamond flasher sign of the Art Jewelry company, which has the distinction of being the oldest display sign in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Art first installed it in front of his old store on Ohio avenue and moved it when he changed to its present location at Eighth and Indiana.

The sign is too heavy to be supported by braces from the building, as the ordinance requires, and is being discarded entirely.

FRIED CORN ON THE COB

—A Novelty In Cooking

Folks who like to try new things will accept this suggestion with enthusiasm.

Fried corn on the cob is delightful, too. It is easy to prepare. You place a deep fat container on the top of the stove, heat a liberal portion of MRS. TUCKER'S SHORTENING to a boiling point, and then drop in the ears whole. The fat must be deep enought to cover. This is not a waste, as you can use MRS. TUCKER'S SHORTENING again and again for frying.

MORE KNOWLEDGE OF LANGUAGE AND GOVERNMENT, NEED

JUDGE JACK REFUSES TO ADMIT APPLICANT TO CITIZENSHIP.

"TOO MANY IGNORANT VOTERS NOW"—JUDGE

Applicant Says Man Who Burns a House Is "Worth" Being Hung By a Mob.

"It is almost a crime to admit a man to citizenship of the United States when he is totally ignorant of local governmental affairs and local conditions. There are too many ignorant voters in the country now and the denial of citizenship is the only method that the court has in protecting the country from this evil"

In these words Judge George W. Jack refused to grant final citizenship papers to Joe Vovil of Electra, Friday morning The application was passed over until next term of court to give the applicant more time to acquaint himself with his government

Judge Jack also told the applicant that he should mingle more with the English speaking residents of his neighborhood and learn to speak the English language better

The court asked him whether he would join a mob to hang a man who had been arrested for burning a house and causing the death of one or more people The applicant replied, "Sure, I would, I think he is worth it."

Later he admitted, however, that the best plan was to permit the man to be tried in the courts of his country.

The district attorney inquired what kind of a countryman he was The applicant stated he was an American. He stated in reply to another question that he was a Russian by birth.

The applicant admitted that he knew nothing of the congressional election which was to be held Saturday. He stated that he had paid his poll tax and would vote if he would be granted his citizenship papers. He said he had heard talk of Morgan, Williams, Bullington and Blanton but did not know what they were running for

SCALES AND PUMPS FOUND DEFECTIVE MUST BE REPAIRED

STATE INSPECTOR WARNS ALL DEALERS TO REMEDY DEVICES.

WILL RETURN LATER TO FINISH WORK HERE

Mechanics Already at Work On Many Instruments That Had Been Condemned.

A report plainly showing conditions that needed attention was made to Police Commissioner J. B Fitts Thursday night by State Weights and Measures Inspector Cam H. Murray, who was unexpectedly called back to Austin. Mr. Murray has been in Wichita Falls for the past ten days checking up on scales and pumps used in dispensing commodities to the public, and he stated on leaving that he hoped to be back within two weeks' time to finish his uncompleted work.

In the report given Mr Fitts, 37 gasoline pumps out of 89 tested at local filling stations were found to be faulty. The other 52 were correct. Ninety scales out of 1'1 tested registered short weight while 101 were found correct. Forty-five inspections of sacked feed were made, each of which found a shortage of from one to six pounds on the hundred pound sack

A special inspection of 50 sacks of chicken feed, 8 1-3 pounds each, found every sack short weight from one ounce to one pound.

The irregularities in the filling station pumps and store scales were promptly met with condemnation proceedings against the defective apparatus. The pumps and scales were tagged in suc hmanner that they could not be operated until an expert had given them a complete overhauling. Several repair men of the larger scale companies and gasoline pump manufacturers are now in the city, Mr. Murray reported, and were available for repair work.

The inspector met with but little trouble during his stay here, he reported, the business men as a whole according him hearty support. At only one place did he experience trouble and the recalcitrant who caused it is now out under heavy bond to await appearance in police court on charges of interfering with officers. This individual at first refused permission for his scales to be inspected and then refused point blank to pay the 15 cent fee charged for all inspections.

His scales were tested, however, and he later paid the fee.

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The cotton market opened at a decline of 2 to 12 points under renewed realizing and local selling promoted by a more favorable weather map than anticipated. The offerings were comparatively light, however, and prices soon rallied on favorable trade advices both from Manchester and the domestic goods market and reports of a more active spot demand in the south. July contracts sold up from 19.42 to 19.55 and October from 19.47 to 19.60 shortly after the call, or about 1 to 4 points above yesterday's close. There was a little scattered southern selling but a considerable trade demand was reported while there was also buying for commission house and New Orleans account. Private wires reported rains at two or three Texas points but the early outlook appeared to be for clearing weather in the south except for cloudy conditions in east Texas and Arkansas.

Continued reports of an increased spot demand and prospects for bullish week-end figures were followed by a covering movement early in the afternoon which sent October up to 19.72 or 1½ points net higher. There was renewed realizing at this figure, however, and the advance was not fully sustained with active months ruling about seven to eight points net higher shortly after 2.00 o'clock.

After selling up to 19.56 for July and 19.62 for October on the early bulge, the market eased off again owing to expectations of bearish domestic consumption figures for April and the western belt forecast for generally fair weather, which was better than expected by local map readers. July sold down to 19.36 and October to 19.40, or about 16 to 20 points below yesterday's closing.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 12.—Liquidation of the long interest and much better weather over the belt put the price of cotton lower by 18 to 21 points in the first hour of the session today. The market was steadied at the decline by private messages to local brokers estimating sales of print cloths in Fall River this week at 250,000 pieces, and by Manchester cables reporting a large business in cloths in that market. The spot sales in the Liverpool market of 15,000 bales for the third day in succession also caused much comment.

Liquidation continued until the trading months were 22 to 24 points under the close of yesterday with July off to 18.95. The whole character of the market was changed by the large mill takings for the week, 208,000 bales against 158,000 this week last year and in the trading up to 11:00 o'clock prices were put 13 to 14 points higher than yesterday's finals, July bulging to 19.32.

Realizing started again on the long side and at 12:30 o'clock prices were 15 to 20 points off from the highest as the result of the selling.

Cotton closed steady at a net decline of 10 to 13 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, May 12.—Aggressive action on the part of bulls forced a new upturn in wheat this morning. Brokers identified with the leading interests on the bull side bought 100,000 bushels the moment the market opened, and other liberal orders to purchase were also quickly filled. Meanwhile, however, the opposing element had delivered more than half a million bushels on May contracts, and today's receipts here were announced as amounting to 240 car loads. The upward swing of the market was soon checked and something of a reaction ensued. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to ¼c higher, with May 1.45 to 1.45¼ and July 1.26¾ to 1.27¼, was followed by a rise of 11c for May and with lesser gains for July and September.

In the later dealings the market dropped to $1.44¾ for May. Talk of large export business aided a rally, however, just before the close. The close was unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c lower, with May $1.44¾@1.45 and July $1.26½@1.26¾.

Corn and oats were firmer with wheat. After opening a shade lower to ¼c@½c higher, with July 65½ to 65¾c, corn sagged a trifle but then scored slight general gains.

Slowness of domestic shipping demand had a depressing influence later. The close was weak, ⅛@¼c to ¼c net lower, with July 64¾@⅞c.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 12.—Steel shares were the central feature at the opening of today's stock market. The proposed merger of the Bethlehem and Lackawanna companies overshadowed all other developments in point of interest and speculative importance. Lackawanna opened with a single offering of 4,000 shares at 73 to 74, followed by 300 shares at 74¾ and 100 shares at 75, an overnight advance of 9¼ points. Bethlehem Steel rose only ¼ and issued of that division were irregular. Midvale Steel, which figured in the prospective merger of half a dozen other companies, was distinctively heavy, soon losing 1¾ point. Pierce-Arrow preferred also reacted one point on announcement that the merger with LaFayette was off. The general list, especially oils and equipments, showed firm to strong tones. General Electric rose 1¼ points and Laclede Gas, one of yesterday's strongest features, gained 1¼ points. Lackawanna Steel reacted two points from its high soon after the opening.

Bullish enthusiasm reached a high pitch in the steels, all the more prominent members of the group exceiling their high figures of the morning. The lower priced issues moved up in resolute fashion. Sloss-Sheffield gaining four points and the remainder one to two points. Equipments, coppers, tobaccos and Mexican Petroleum were also in the forefront of the upward movement.

Negro Organization Condemns Bullington

The American Association for the Advancement of the Colored Race, the organization whose paid white attorney was given a severe threshing and ridden out of Austin a few years ago astride a fence rail for protesting to Governor Hobby against the alleged mistreatment of Texas negroes, has entered actively into the congressional race in the Thirteenth District.

This negro uplift society of New York, which stands for social equality among the white and black races, is apparently circularizing the negro voters of the entire district brazenly opposing the candidacy of Orville Bullington because of his well-known opposition to negro participation in Texas politics.

The original letter is on file at Bullington headquarters and is available for the inspection of all interested citizens.

The letter clearly gives the negro organization's viewpoint of the various congressional candidates, together with their attitude on the negro question.

That portion of the letter pertaining to Mr. Bullington's stand on this question is reproduced below. The original letter is addressed to a well-known North Texas negro and is apparently getting wide circulation among the negro voters of the district.

Here is a part of the letter that pertains to Orville Bullington:

"Dear Sir and Brother: This association by resolution is obligated to assist in sending to Congress only men who are in sympathy with the purposes of this organization. We are therefore giving you the record of the Congressional candidates in the Thirteenth Texas district and request you to pass this on to the colored voters of this district urging them to center on one candidate to defeat the enemy of social equality and colored advancement in this race.

"Orville Bullington: Made speech before audience of Democrats and Republicans in Dallas in 1920 and stated he would withdraw his objections to the Republican party in Texas when the negro had been eliminated from its councils. Also author of resolution declaring for white political supremacy, which resulted in making the Republican party in Texas white. Record bad."

The letter gives in graphic detail the negro organization's interpretations of the record of the other three candidates on this question listing them as favorable, good and fair, and fully sets forth how these different grades were arrived at.

The original letter ends with this brazen paragraph:

"This is the most reliable information we can get and it represents several weeks' of careful investigation. You can depend on it. God speed to you in promoting social equality of the race."

The letter is signed by the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored Race, per J. W. Johnson (colored), Secretary.

Orville Bullington hereby admits that this association has correctly given his views on the negro question.

Orville Bullington pleads guilty to having made the speech referred to and to having written the resolution.

Orville Bullington makes no bid for the negro vote in his race for Congress, but willingly concedes this class of suffrage to those who seek it.

Orville Bullington stands with other red-blooded Americans of the Southland on the race question and resents this infamous act of brazen effrontery.

Orville Bullington is unalterably and openly opposed to negro domination and solicits the undivided support of every 100 per cent American in the Thirteenth Congressional District in this fight for WHITE SUPREMACY.

D. M. HARDY NOT GUILTY BRIBING FEDERAL OFFICER

AFTER DELIBERATING 45 MINUTES JURY FREES DEFENDANT.

ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED AT 11 P. M. THURSDAY

Defendant, While On Stand, Denies Giving Money to Lankford to Bribe Dowell.

After deliberating 45 minutes, the jury in the case against D M. Hardy, in the United States district court returned a verdict of not guilty at 11 45 o clock The acquittal came after the second ballot, the first ballot standing nine for acquittal and three for conviction

Thursday night s verdict removes the last of the charges brought against Hardy in connection with alleged traffic in liquor shipments into Oklahoma, the cases brought against him have been pending in federal court for over four years

Argument of counsel began at 8 o'clock Thursday night and was concluded at 10 45 Judge George W Jack consumed 15 minutes in charging the jury as to the law applicable in the case

Dan Hardy, the defendant, his wife, son and grandchild were in the court room when the verdict was returned His attorneys, J H. Barwise Jr and Walter Scott, both of Fort Worth sat by them. The defendant's wife had spent a most anxious 45 minutes while the jury was deliberating and when the knock on the jury room door was heard, her anxiety became more pronounced. The defendant however, showed no visible signs of nervousness.

After the jury verdict was read the defendant walked briskly to the jury box rail and in a loud, yet trembling voice, said, "I thank you, gentlemen" He then returned to the side of his wife

The defendant had taken the stand in his own defense late Thursday afternoon, positively denying that he had ever given any money to anyone to bribe J B. Dowell special officer of the department of the interior. He also denied given A. C. Flowers any money to send Gene Flowers out of the state

A large number of character witnesses who testified as to the reputation of the defendant in the community in which he resided as to truth veracity, and being a law abiding citizen. All testified that the reputation was good.

The defense counsel urged the court at the beginning of the arguments Thursday evening that the government should elect the count in the indictment Judge Jack however ruled that that matter lay wholly in the discretion of the court.

Assistant United States District Attorney Aterberry opened the argument for the government. In the course of his argument Mr Aterberry referred to a former conviction of the defendant on the same charge and the reversal of the case. He stated that it was reversed on account of the insufficiency of the evidence because there was a missing link, inasmuch that there was no connection established between Hardy and Dowell with reference to the $500 The government s attorney stated that that missing link had been now supplied in the testimony of Lankford

Defense counsel objected to the reference as to the reason for the reversal of the other case Judge Jack however ruled that that since the government counsel had referred to it that the door was open for the defense on the same question

Judge Barwise, who spoke second referred to the rule of evidence in the federal court where a defendant could be convicted on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice He stated that if this were a state court that the evidence of an accomplice would necessarily have to be supported before a conviction could be had. He addressed these remarks to the court, who halted him on the question

Judge Barwise stressed the point in his argument as to whether Dowell might not have influenced the others in carrying out the alleged bribery and as to whether it might not be likely that Dowell, the officer, did not entrap the defendant to commit the act charged.

He stated that the questions that they should consider carefully was "Did Dowell seek to induce the defendant and his associates to bribe him, Dowell, or did he after they had conceived the criminal intent merely assume the role of cooperation?" He attempted to show that Dowell had induced them and entrapped them to commit it.

Attorney Walter Scott, who closed for the defense and District Attorney Henry Zweifel who closed for the government both delivered masterly arguments to the jury Those who were in attendance on the court during the night session were unanimous in their opinion that all four arguments taken as a whole were the best that had been delivered in the county court house in some time

SHRINE MINSTREL PROVES PLEASING TO BIG AUDIENCE

The oft repeated promise of local Shriners that their minstrel show this year would surpass anything of the same nature ever attempted here before was made good at the Wichita theatre Thursday night when the big cast made its initial bow before a packed house The entire production was staged with an elaborate attention to detail that made the previous efforts of the Shriners pale in comparison, while the entertainment values of the musical numbers and comedy skits were such as to thoroughly satisfy a not over-critical audience

The crowd that jammed the theater to capacity took good naturedly some rather personal slams and distributed its approbation impartially All the performers were given encouraging support from the first floor—and in the balcony a small army of boy scouts whooped it up with a reckless disregard of their reputations for discreetness and propriety

To Lewis Lacey director and producer of the minstrel, the major portion of the evening s glory should go He appeared as interlocutor in the initial part of the program and later directed the work of his understudies with finished precision

A rather complicated story involving the life and habits of one Jerry Van Cleve, an imaginative individual whose practical observations are directed to the accumulated wealth of Aunt Charity formed the vehicle for most of the evening s entertainment An introductory prologue by W. H. Caldwell and Ruth Nolen was followed by the appearance of the minstrels in the dining salon of an ocean steamer and still later the entire steamer party disports itself aboard a cannibal isle where most of the action takes place.

Names and faces already familiar to those who have followed the home talent productions in recent years were again evident in the Thursday night performance Frank Patton, J T Yeargin, Frances Scott, J L. Hill, Charlie and Ruth Nolen, Sid Gaines, Pat Jarrett, Mrs Louella Thompson, D M. Burgan, Montrey Lewis, George Massey and others all made favorable impressions when they appeared before the footlights. The choruses, composed mainly of high school misses, were also received with hearty enthusiasm.

Horace Robbins and Claude Woods took the end men parts in the minstrel and got away with some rare comedy and Jimmey Elliott also featured in this department 'Eddie Purdew, a new addition to the local black face fraternity, proved a real 'find" and carried his part with more professional ease, probably, than any of the others

The same production will be given tonight and again tomorrow night with packed houses assured for each performance

NORTH WIND HAS SOOTHING EFFECT ON TEMPERATURES

A north wind which supplanted the wind from the south during the night Thursday had a soothing effect on the high temperatures that have prevailed The temperature locally dropped 21 degrees during the night, falling to the 68 degree mark. Thursday afternoon the mercury had risen to 83 degrees.

On the north and west end of local railroad lines the temperature fell still lower. Forgan and Woodward reported a low mark of the night of 55 degrees while Texline reported 45, Amarillo 53, and Childress 55 degrees.

Generally clear skies were reported from all points and although the wind direction was north the movement was light.
